Testing

Kingspan SafeDefence Protection Systems have been subjected to robust independent impact testing to determine the force they can withstand and their respective deflection. Test results indicate that the protection system's elastic/ flexible design outperforms many comparable systems.

Materials

Protection systems are manufactured from either solid high performance synthetic polymer technology or our latest high performance flexible protection technology, FLEXsafe.

All products are located and installed independent of the elements to be protected, removing the risk of damage from impact transmission.

Hygienic and easy to clean, low maintenance and carrying food-quality certification, these high-performance synthetic polymer protection systems typically contain 40% recycled material and have been designed to suit all industries.
